Trenton, N. J., 1931.

This is to certify that the raspberry plants, roots or tips offered for sale by Hugo Kind of Hammonton, in Atlantic County, New Jersey, have been inspected in the field and found practically free from mosaic, leaf curl, rosette and similar diseases.

Digging and Storage

It is of the general opinion that frost is necessary before digging. Such is not the case. The Dahlia (a native of Mexico) had never known frost. What is expedient is a short resting period. During Mexico's eight months of growing season and followed then by draught the plant naturally remains dormant. Under our "artificial" method of growing we should lift the tubers by about the end of October and store in a cool cellar; a light frost upon the leaves has no bad effect. A heavy freeze is apt to send the frozen juices to the bulb and what is known as dry rot will most always set in.

Dahlias are best stored in a damp cellar with plenty of fresh air. They can also be stored in barrels or boxes, but left open until all excessive moisture has left the roots. Covering to keep them from shriveling may be placed on them after January.

All Dahlias here listed are grown at our grounds at Hammonton, N. J., tried out and thoroughly rogued. Though we make no claims that the varieties listed are the choice of Dahlias, we have made up this selection for the wants of our customers. Kinds and varieties as to the best is entirely psychological and we leave the matter of choice to the buyer.

Dahlia Cultural Directions:

Clumps should be cut to single eye divisions. If sprouted cut the sprout within a quarter of an inch from the bulb.

They should be planted in rows of five feet apart and two to three feet in the rows. The best method is to lay the bulb flat (not stand) and cover with three inches of soil. If a row six inches deep is struck and roots planted three inches When the plant has attained a height of about eight inches pinch out the top. This will enable the plant to sprout and give proper flowers. A second pinching may be made in the early August. Not later. Disbudding of the side shoots is very essential. This will give you the fine exhibition flowers. We suggest five to six flowers to the plant. Flowers cut in the morning hold up best. Place in a cool cellar away from draft. Slightly syringe the flowers, this will stiffen them.

In rich soil fertilize slightly. In poor soils over fertilization can hardly be accomplished. Bone meal, manure, or any good potato fertilizer is essential.

Cut (greatly reduced in size) showing practical methods of dividing. The crown (note knife) can also be split with good results.

Dahlias

Ambassador.

All stock listed are strong divisions.

The kind of roots we send out—They are grown from divisions. We do not send the small knotted pot grown roots so often used. Our roots are of good size, dependable and well grown. Our diggings are made immediately after frost and it is our aim that all stock be harvested before the stem is frozen. This assures good keeping qualities.

3 bulbs at ten rate, 25 at 100 rate. Those listed singly at prices quoted. If you wish less than three of those listed at ten rates add 3 cts. per bulb.

Speaking of Dahlias, Mr. Frank Cohn Writes

I want to say to you that they are the grandest things I have ever seen. Every one of the tubers materialized and the flowers are just as beautiful in my yard as what I saw in your fields when I was in Hammonton. This may be saying a lot, but I want you to know, and you can broadcast it from me, that I have never seen more beautiful flowers than those that came from the tubers which I bought from you. You can positively be assured that next year when I am ready to plant my dahlias, you will get all my business.

South Entrance at Shady Lawn Nurseries.

As a Charter Member of the American Dahlia Society I invite you to join this grand organization.

If we should ship you by mistake,
Or in your bill some error make,
From irritation you'd be free
If I knew you and you knew me.
Or when the checks don't come on time,
And customers send us nary a line,
We'd wait without anxiety
If I knew you and you knew me.

Then let no doubting thoughts abide
Of firm good faith on either side;
Confidence to each other give,—
Living ourselves, let others live.
But any time you come this way,
That you will call we hope and pray:
Then face to face we each shall see,
And I'll know you and you'll know me.

Somerset. Is a large decorative on excellent stems. Keeping qualities of the best if cut when the blooms have fully matured. Blooms freely. In fashioning this flower the genii of nature have blended the color tones in a manner that makes description difficult. But while the color somewhat varies according to weather conditions and the age of the flower, the general effect is that of salmon and old rose. As the blooms mature, the salmon changes into old rose, and like an after-thought, sometimes, there is a touch of lavender there. There is just a slight twist to the petals and irregularity in the arrayal of same, which gives the flower an air of grace and refinement that is lacking in most large dahlias. Somerset is a healthy and vigorous grower, that you will not need to spray and dust or worry lest some insect give it a cross look. Even Dia-

Gold Medal. "Kind's Gold Medal." Of all the show Dahlias we have, here is a Dahlia all by itself. The reader may recall the older variety of Gold Medal. A yellow base with markings of bronze. Ten years back we found a sport from this par- ticular sort which proved to retain its character. The color is of a most pleasing coppery bronze. Many of these flowers are shipped to the New York and Philadelphia markets. A color always wanted by the decorator. Consult your wholesaler as to his opinion on this particular Dahlia. Through a mis- understanding this Dahlia was given other names as "Gold Medal De Luxe," etc. There are the three strong points why you should have this Dahlia in your collection: A most desirable color, long sturdy stems, always in demand-----	1.50	14.00

Rooted Cuttings

Rooted cuttings have been one of our most successful items among our Dahlia offerings. They not only give the first year the best exhibition flowers but save you many dollars by procuring at low cost the best high priced varieties. We have shipped them to almost every state in the Union and the testimonial letters received have been most gratifying.

HOW TO CARE FOR CUTTINGS WHEN RECEIVED

Unpack immediately, place in 2¼-inch pots or plant in shallow flats of soil. Shade for several days. Many of our customers report placing cuttings in the open field. Though this method of planting may be successful in a rainy period, one takes chances should hot, dry weather set in. Another good way when danger of frost is past is to plant in cool frames. Cheese cloth makes an excellent shade and also prevents draft from reaching the cuttings.

By this method stock will be ready in ten days and cuttings may be lifted with good soil adhering to roots. Always water well before lifting cuttings. An inexpensive way of shading in open field is to use magazine pages and placing a little soil at both ends. It is surprising how the moisture will remain under this covering.

Orders booked in rotation.

Charge orders not accepted on rooted cuttings.

No cuttings will be sent out earlier than February 1st. Stock shipped only at customer's risk.

You will find these knives and shears to be most satisfactory not only for the way they do their work, but for the way they hold their cutting edges and for their long life in continued service.
